

Making an Inference

Name of Video Short:

Inferences are a combination of two things:

- 1. Your background knowledge*
- 2. What the author tells us*

Inferring lets us play detective and try to figure out the hidden parts to a story.

If you want to see a video explaining more about inferencing check out these videos. Video 1 Video 2 Video 3

Stop your video at a point where you think you can make an inference and then answer these questions. (If you need help watch Video 1)

Inference 1
What has just happened in the story?
What is your inference?
What evidence leads you to this inference?

Stop your video a second time at a point where you think you can make an inference and then answer these questions. (If you need help watch Video 1)

Inference 2
What has just happened in the story?
What is your inference?
What evidence leads you to this inference?

Making an Inference

Stop your video a third time at a point where you think you can make an inference and then answer these questions. (If you need help watch Video 1)

Inference 3
What has just happened in the story?
What is your inference?
What evidence leads you to this inference?

Stop your video a fourth time at a point where you think you can make an inference and then answer these questions. (If you need help watch Video 1)

Inference 4
What has just happened in the story?
What is your inference?
What evidence leads you to this inference?